INTEGRITY You know right from wrong and try to do the right thing.

QUESTION Assume you are at work and one of your co-workers decides that he wants to leave work 15 minutes early, but does not want the manager to whom you both report to know that he is leaving early. As your co-worker is leaving he explains to you that he is leaving early and asks you to “cover for him” in case your manager comes by and asks where he is. What would you do in this situation?

(Possible probes/additional comments: Assume the Manager comes by and asks you directly where your co-worker is. What would you say? What would you say to the co-worker before he leaves?)

SAMPLE EFFECTIVE BEHAVIORS

1. Indicating disagreement with the co-worker’s deceitful actions
2. Informing the co-worker he/she will not lie to the manager
3. Indicating that he/she will tell the manager the true story

SAMPLE INEFFECTIVE BEHAVIORS

1. Seeing nothing wrong with the co-workers behavior (e.g., it’s not my business)
2. Agreeing to “cover” for the co-worker or play dumb if questioned by the manager
3. Indicating disagreement with the co-worker’s actions, but a reluctance to state views to the co-worker

RESPONSIBILITY

You work hard to do your job the best that it can be done; you pay attention to details and concentrate even when doing things you don't like; you always try to be on time for work; you do your work with a positive attitude.

QUESTION

Assume that you work in a large Department Store and that your manager just told you to take your morning break. Your break is only fifteen minutes long and you need to be back at your work station in exactly fifteen minutes. You are on your way to the break room when a customer approaches you and asks you where she can find picture frames. You know that picture frames are on the completely opposite side of the store, in the Home Furnishing section, and are pretty difficult to find. How would you deal with this customer?

NOTES: _____
_____
_____

SAMPLE EFFECTIVE BEHAVIORS

1. Cutting the break short and walking the customer over to the location of the picture frames
2. Attempting to locate a co-worker who can take the customer to the picture frames

SAMPLE INEFFECTIVE BEHAVIORS

1. Telling the customer you are "on break" and cannot help them right now
2. Simply telling the customer that picture frames are located in the Home Furnishing section of the store and providing no more direction or suggestions

Applicant: _____

SELF-ESTEEM You handle feedback and suggestions without becoming defensive, angry or upset; you are not afraid to learn new things.

QUESTION Assume that you work in a store where you are required to clock into work using a time card. You arrive at work and are on your way to clock in when a customer approaches you and asks for help. After helping the customer for about five minutes, you then go to the time clock to clock into work. Your manager notices that you are a few minutes late clocking into work and politely reminds you that it is important that you get to work on time. How would you deal with your manager?

IF the interviewee would explain that he/she was late clocking in only due to the fact that a customer was being helped, follow up your question with the following: Okay, then suppose that your manager says that helping the customer was good, but that in the future you need to clock in before you perform any work activities. What would you then say or do?

NOTES: _____

SAMPLE EFFECTIVE BEHAVIORS

1. Initially explaining why he/she was late clocking in vs. indicating he/she would disagree that he/she was “late”, just agreeing with the manager, etc.
2. Seeking additional clarity regarding why clocking in before performing any work activities is important

SAMPLE INEFFECTIVE BEHAVIORS

1. Indicating an overly aggressive need to “correct” the manager’s perception that he/she was “late”
2. Simply agreeing with the manager’s initial comments and not explaining the situation (e.g., “whatever”, etc.)
3. Asking no questions regarding why clocking in first is important

Applicant: _____

SELF-MANAGEMENT

You are aware of what you can and cannot do and you are not afraid to ask for help when you need it; you try to get better at things that you do not do well.

QUESTION

Assume that you work in a company that does commercial printing. Your supervisor asks you to show a new employee how to operate the large hole-punch machine in the shop. You know a little about the hole-punch machine from having seen other employees operate it a few times, but you have never actually operated it yourself. How would you handle the situation with your supervisor?

RATING FOR RESPONSE: _____

Applicant: _____

SOCIABILITY You are understanding, friendly, flexible, and polite; when you are around co-workers you participate in whatever is going on instead of trying to be “invisible”; you get along with others; you take an interest in what others say and do.

QUESTION Assume that one of your co-workers, with whom you are somewhat friendly, is currently undergoing a divorce and often wants to talk with you about personal problems he is having because of the divorce. However, the supervisor that both you and the co-worker report to has told you that he (the supervisor) believes you and the co-worker have tended to spend too much time talking and need to pay more attention to your work. How would you deal with your co-worker?

NOTES: _____
